DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 3-5 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

As to claims 3-5, the recitations of “the alignment mark may improve” or “acquiring step may reduce” or “acquiring step may approach a predetermined interval” render the claims indefinite since it has been held that the recitation of a device “may” perform a function is not a positive limitation and it does not constitute a limitation in any patentable sense.

Claim 16 recites the limitations "the value" and “the device” in line 6. There are insufficient antecedent basis for these limitations in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 2851

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

4. Claims 1-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Okita et al (U.S.Pat. 6,538,721).

With respect to claim 16, Okita discloses an exposure apparatus for transferring a predetermined pattern form on a reticle (M) onto a substrate (W) and comprising all basic features of the instant claims such as: a surface position detecting means (51-58) for acquiring information of an alignment mark formed on the substrate (see figure 2) by changing a value of a device parameter, the obtained information being used for an alignment between the mask and the substrate (see col.6, lines 37 thru col.7 line 63) and an optimization part (27, 90) for setting the value of the device parameters to the exposure apparatus based on the information obtained (see col.7, lines 64 thru col.8 line 44). Okita further teaches the alignment mark formed on the substrate including plural elements arranged at a desired interval (see figure 2a-2c) and the device parameters including an arrangement of sample shot for an advance global alignment, illumination mode, exposure line width, mark width, mark line width and a width of a process window (see figures 4 and 5; see col.13, lines 35).

As to claims 1-15, the corresponding method claims are seen inherent teachings in existence of the above apparatus.

With respect to claim 17, even though Okita does not expressly disclose a program for enabling a computer executing the exposure method as claimed but this feature is seen to be an inherent teaching of the exposure apparatus of Okita since a CPU (90) for performing the exposure apparatus is disclosed and it is apparent that some type of program must be present for the CPU to function as intended.

Prior Art Made of Record

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Morimoto (U.S. 2003/0059691 A1); Kasuga (U.S.Pat. 5,656,402) and Ina et al (U.S.Pat. 6,639,677) discloses an exposure apparatus and method for automatically measuring shot compensation parameters and providing precision alignment between the reticle and the substrate in accordance with the shot compensation parameters.
